Dr. Charles Davis

Author | Keynote Speaker | Leadership Consultant | Educator

About Me

Dr. Davis is an author, executive leadership consultant, and speaker holding a doctorate in Educational Leadership from Liberty University, and an Ed.S. in Leadership and Administration. Drawing from more than 15 years in public education as a department chair and athletic coach, paired with executive consulting, Dr. Davis understands the real-world pressures and trauma modern students face: transition shock, social distractions, mental fatigue, and shifting priorities. He bridges the gap between academic potential and persistent execution, equipping collegiate and K-12 audiences with actionable frameworks that drive student retention, self-efficacy, and campus leadership.

Testimonials

"Dr. Davis delivered an electric message that resonated across our entire campus. He didn't just motivate our students—he gave them practical strategies to take ownership of their education from day one." – Director of Student Life & Campus Engagement

"Real, raw, and rooted in the reality of what college students face today. His framework around 'Standards Over Feelings' was referenced by our student leaders all semester long."
– Dean of Students Dr. Todd Reynolds
